Little did I know when I hesitantly accepted a blind date that it would result in meeting the love of my life, and have me standing here in front of him today.

You immediately captivated me, Charles.

It may have been your dashing handsome smile that instantly attracted me, but it was your compassionate heart and natural kindness that made me fall in love with you.

You are the most caring person I've ever met, and you make everyone around you feel more alive. I adore your thoughtful gestures—whether it's surprising me with my favorite dessert or your award-worthy hand massages—you always make me feel loved.

I am in awe of the man I get to marry. Because of you, I've learned how to become a better version of myself.

Your ambition has inspired me to turn my dreams into a reality.

Your strength has shown me how to triumph through the tough times.

Your patience has taught me how to love better.

I am grateful to be with such an inherently good man who encourages me every day to be a better woman for myself...and for you.

As I look into our marriage, I see us thriving as a team. I believe it's been our unwavering ability to put each other first that has made our relationship strong, and I promise to continue putting you and our love first for the rest of my life.

Charles, you've made me feel more loved than I ever knew was possible and I'm so excited to continue to grow with you through every page of this next chapter...as your wife.

Let's look at one more example. Can you spot each section of the outline throughout these vows?

Eliza, I will be forever grateful that you chose me to become your husband today.

You are the most beautiful woman. You continuously captivate me with your kindness, passionate curiosity, and endless support.

Being around you, I feel like I can completely be myself and you not only support my authentic self—you celebrate it. Your sense of selflessness has shown me what kind of husband I wish to be for you.

I promise to put your needs first in our marriage.

I promise to make you laugh every day and to offer my shoulder when you're sad.

I promise to always support the growth of our relationship as we continue to learn through our love from this day forward.

I know our marriage will be full of many different moments but I also know that we'll thrive through them all because I'll have you by my side—my best friend, my inspiration, my wife.
